

1. Introduction

Under certain circumstances, employees are protected from suffering any detriment or termination of employment if they make disclosures about organisations for whom they work.

2. Qualifying Disclosures

2.1 Certain disclosures are prescribed by law as "qualifying disclosures". A "qualifying disclosure" means a disclosure of information that the employee genuinely and reasonably believes is in the public interest and shows that the school has committed a "relevant failure" by:

- Committing a criminal offence;
- Failing to comply with a legal obligation;
- A miscarriage of justice;
- Endangering the health and safety of an individual;
- Environmental damage; or
- Concealing any information relating to the above.

2.2 These acts can be in the past, present or future, so that, for example, a disclosure qualifies if it relates to environmental damage that has happened, is happening, or is likely to happen. The school will take any concerns that you may raise relating to the above matters very seriously.

2.3 The Employment Rights Act 1996 provides protection for workers who 'blow the whistle' where they reasonably believe that some form of illegality, injustice or breach of health and safety has occurred or is likely to occur. The disclosure has to be "in the public interest". We encourage you to use the procedure to raise any such concerns.

3. The Procedure

3.1 In the first instance you should report any concerns you may have to the Head Teacher who will treat the matter with complete confidence. If you are not satisfied with the explanation or reason given to you, you should raise the matter with the appropriate official organisation or regulatory body.

3.2 If you do not report your concerns to the Head Teacher you should take them direct to the Chair of the Board of Trustees.

4: Treatment of Others

Bullying, harassment or any other detrimental treatment afforded to a colleague who has made a qualifying disclosure is unacceptable. Anyone found to have acted in such a manner will be subject to disciplinary action.

Are you aware of the Whistleblowing Policy?
Copies can be found on the Shared Server.

The policy seeks to provide the means to confidentially report any concerns stakeholders may have, without fear of victimisation or recrimination.

Examples of concerns may be: Law breaking, miscarriage of justice, health and safety risks, sexual, physical or financial abuse and unethical conduct.

Concerns will be treated in strict confidence, within procedure.

Any concerns should be raised with the Head of School or the Chair of Governors and can be raised in writing or orally. If in writing, envelopes should be marked 'Private and Confidential' and passed to the Head of School with as much information as possible being supplied.

Once a concern has been made, an acknowledgement letter will be sent out within 48 hours by the Head of School or Chair of Governors (as appropriate) and discreet enquires will begin.
